Pictures For '59 Calendar Chosen From Employee Entries

Eleven Lago employees were named winners of the 1959 calendar competition conducted by the Public Relations Department. The successful photographers submitted the 12 transparencies judged best from 771 slides entered during the month-long contest.

The winning shots were submitted by J. M. Shaver of the Accounting transparencies for the 1959 calendar was done by six members of the Public Relations Department.

A preliminary culling eliminated many because their subjects were of limited interest, were over or under exposed, had no center of interest or were technically poor and would not reproduce. Some others were simply not calendar subjects and had very limited, sometimes very personal, appeal. Subjects chosen for the calendar included people, a sunset, Oranjestad street scene, seascapes in the country and scenes with the beach or water as the main source of interest.

Of the 11, Mr. van Montfrans hit the jackpot: two of his slides were selected. Another who once again fared well was Mr. Wilkie. In the first calendar contest conducted in 1954 for the '55 calendar, Mr. Wilkie had one of his slides selected. The others are all newcomers, many of whom had entered slides in the first contest.

For their efforts they each received Fls. 100 with the exception of Mr. van Montfrans who received double the award for his two entries. The presentation of the checks was made by B. Teagle, public relations manager at an Esso Dining Hall luncheon April 24 in honor of the calendar winners.

Judging the 771 slides was not easy, so many excellent transparencies were submitted by Lago employees. They ranged far and wide in subjects and number submitted by individuals. Mr. Cole, one of the winners, submitted only one slide, and in the final selection it was selected. He was the only entrant to submit only one, however, others sent in from four to over one hundred. The average was about 15.

The pictures were chosen on the basis of technical qualities with reproduction a prime consideration, appeal, beauty, story-telling aspect, composition, degree of color, nature of subject and softness and warmth. These are some of the requirements a calendar picture must have to withstand the extremely critical test of being viewed for one solid month without relief.

The task of selecting the final 12

All judging was done without the knowledge of names. Anonymity was the state, fair and critical judging the rule, a top flight 1959 calendar the desire. At the conclusion of the final session, a three-hour period during which the 26 slides that survived earlier elimination were honed down to the final 12, the judging members of the Public Relations Department felt the slides chosen would make the 1959 model as outstanding as its predecessors.

The predominant size was 35 mm, although a fair proportion of the 771 total was 120's and some 4x5. The carnival rated high as subject choice as did the beaches, Princess Wilhelmina's statue and park, Mount Hooiberg and Paardenbaai.

Two sets of entries were received from annuitants in the United States. Regular recipients of the Aruba Esso News, they learned of the contest through this medium. Ten slides of Aruba scenes came from Fred C. Buchholtz, now living in Lawrence, Kansas. A set of eight transparencies were received from Charlie Drew in Waldboro, Maine, who, according to his letter, had to "drive to the post office through snow and sleet to mail the slides in the hope I will beat the deadline."

THE SEVEN 30-year men honored at the first group presentation this month are shown as they listen to Executive Vice President F. E. Griffin comment on their long service. Behind them are supervisors and invited guests.

Seven 30-Year Employees Honored In First Group Award Presentations

Presentation of 30-year awards to seven employees April 14 marked the first of a series of monthly group presentations replacing the former single awards.

On hand for precedent-making affair were supervisors of the men concerned and the Management Staff Committee.

Executive Vice President F. E. Griffin made the presentations to Wilfred McDowell, Mechanical-Storehouse; Richard I. Noel, Mechanical Seafolder; Ludwig M. F. Cornes, Mechanical-Machinist; Duane C. Walker, Mechanical-Pipe; George H. Arens, Mechanical-Yard; Jose M. Winterdaal, Process- R.&S., and Lincoln Stuart, Marine Department.

In the informal ceremony conducted by Mr. Griffin, several of the awardees addressed a few remarks to the group. "Slim" McDowell was one of them. Mr. McDowell, described by Mr. Griffin as a "Lago ambassador wherever he goes," told a number of humorous anecdotes about his days with Lago, including one yarn which expressed the opinion that a fire truck should have the right of way over an ambulance, because a fire truck could save many lives at once, but a doctor could save only one at a time.

Mr. Cornes spoke briefly, and told the group about the days when he used to ride a burro to work and tie it up outside the gates. He said that 30 years of service with one company was a long time, and that he was proud of his.

Mr. McDowell began work with Lago in March, 1928 as a laborer in the Storehouse. Later that year he transferred to the Labor Department, but returned to the Storehouse as a storhouse helper in April, 1936. He was made a janitor in July, 1942. In addition to being the "ambassador" Mr. Griffin spoke of. Mr. McDowell was also described by his supervisors at the ceremony as a dependable employee, "one who is on the job when the whistle sounds, and who is not afraid to do more than his share."

Mr. Noel, "a man who built scaffolding around here before anybody ever thought of Gold Medal," according to Mr. Griffin, started work in March, 1928 as a carpenter. In March, 1954 he moved to Mechanical-Carpenter. He is currently carpenter A.

In his 30 years of service, which go back to 1927, Mr. Cornes has worked as a laborer, blacksmith, and machinist in such varied places as the Labor department and Mechanical-Machinist. In other days he did much of the company's steeplejack work. His job now is machinist.

Labeled by Mr. Griffin as "one of the last of the Casper boys," Mr. Walker was originally employed by Standard Oil Company (Indiana), in Casper, Wyoming. He came to Aruba in July, 1929 as a helper in the Pressure Stills, and was working as a fireman when the first still started up. He transferred to Mechanical-Pipe the next month as a pipefitter. He worked later as pipe machine operator, tradesman, and subforeman. He worked for a year in TSD as equipment inspector, and returned to Mechanical-Pipe in 1945. He was promoted to zone foreman in April, 1955.

In his first days at Lago, Mr. Arens was on the docks when a lot of constructing materials came in. Now, subforeman in Mechanical-Yard, he watching a lot of that same material being scraped. He started work April 1, 1928, and worked in the Mechanical Department as labor foreman, tradesman, rigger foreman and subforeman.

Jose M. Winterdaal, corporal on the wharves, started to work for Lago in January, 1928 in the Labor Department. He transferred in 1929 to Receiving and Shipping. F. J. Dunbar, one of Mr. Winterdaal's supervisor at the presentation, said that Mr. Winterdaal was "the top corporal in the group."

Four, Including Husband, Wife, Retire

Four employees, including the first husband and wife pair to retire here, are ending long service at Lago.

The husband and wife are Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Gillis. Mr. Gillis is assistant shift foreman, Process-LOF, and Mrs. Gillis is a nurse supervisor at Lago Hospital. Both are leaving Aruba April 29.

Others retiring are Bastiaan Meuldijk, job training instructor, Mechanical-Pipe, and C. A. C. Richinsin, cleaner, Mechanical-Yard.

Mrs. Gillis came to Aruba in March, 1952 as a shift supervisor in the hospital. Before that, however she had worked with Humble Oil & Refining Company from May, 1930 to November, 1946, and with Andian National Corporation Ltd., from 1946 until she came to Aruba. Altogether Mrs. Gillis has just over 28 years of service.

Second among the four retirees in point of service is Mr. Meuldijk. His more than 25 years of service have all been spent in the Pipe Shop, save

Visiting Rules Altered For Obstetrical Floor

New visiting rules, designed to render greater protection to hospital patients have been announced by the Medical Department, to go into effect May 1. The new rules apply only to the obstetrical floor.

Under the new regulations, only the husband and parents of the mother-patient can visit during the first five days after an obstetrical delivery.

Beginning with the sixth day, however, adults and children over 13 may visit the patient.

Children up to 13 will not be permitted on the obstetrical floor of the Hospital under normal circumstances. In cases where the patient-mother is seriously ill, children under 13 will be allowed to visit her with permission granted by designated members of the nursing section.

The new regulations at Lago Hospital are largely the same which are applied by all obstetrical hospitals or obstetrical divisions in hospitals in Europe and the United States.

Dr. R. C. Carrell, Lago medical director, in announcing the rules change, said that problems of cross infection experienced during the recent Asian flu epidemic indicated the dangers to which mothers and newly-born infants are subjected to by visitors. "The Medical Department," Dr. Carrell said, "believes its first interest should be the rendering of the best service possible to the patient and the newborn baby." The changes in visiting regulations is another step in that direction.

Stanvac Paper Tells Sea Story

"Stanvac Meridian", publication of Standard - Vacuum Oil Company, draws its copy and pictures from exotic parts of the world: India, Australia, the Far East. With vast oceanic distances between operations Stanvac depends on shipping, and ships sailing those storied waters often come up with good copy.

For example, from the current issue comes the story of a mishap at sea and fast teamwork between the ship, White Plains and London. The ship, "Stanvac Bangkok", lost her propeller in Torres Strait between Australia and New Guinea. As Stanvac Meridian tells it:

"A ship without a propeller is like a canoe without a paddle, but luckily the sea was calm and the 'Bangkok' could anchor in a relatively safe position."

"The Marine Department in White Plains (N. Y.) in conjunction with Standard - Vacuum Transportation Company in London, promptly arranged for two other Stanvac tankers to assist the 'Bangkok.' The 'Stanvac Palembang,' which had passed the point of the misadventure three days previously en route to the Persian Gulf in ballast, backtracked. She towed the stricken tanker to Singapore where a new propeller had been stocked.

"The 16,000-ton cargo gasoline and diesel fuel was first transferred at sea to the 'Sonja,' which minimized delay and handling of cargo for its New Zealand consignees, and facilitated the towing job."

In another sea story, this time closer to home, the "Esso Guatemala" bound for Honduras rescued a Honduran fisherman who had been blown out to sea, some 70 miles from his home.

Segraves den Puesto Nobo

R. O. Segraves a worde promovi pa posicion di assistant operations co-ordinator April 15.

Cu e sistema aki, e necesidadnan comun por worde remedia for di dentro organizacion di Jersey sin e necesidad di forma un grupo grandi di instructors.

For Latin America

Esso Training Center

Opens In Colombia

Future efficiency of this and every other affiliate of Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) will depend on qualities of leadership developed in the present. Individual and collective skill and talents of employees must be directed and utilized to the fullest. Latin American affiliates of Jersey have pooled their resources and plans to do just that, with the establishment in Cali, Colombia, of the Esso Training Center.

Lago has so far taken part in the work of the Center by sending three men — Fabian Francis, Training Division; J. C. Fraser, Receiving & Shipping, and J. E. Peterson, LOF — to programs. F. C. Donovan, superintendent of staff and services, is a member of the Management Committee which administers the Center.

The Center, whose official name is "Centro de Entrenamiento Esso para Latino America," is modeled after the Training Center operated by European affiliates.

Cali was selected as the site of the center only after careful study. With the thought of reducing travel time and costs it was finally chosen because it was located centrally, it has a fine climate, and adequate facilities available at reasonable costs.

Located in Hotel

The Center takes up the top floor of the Hotel Aristi, and includes two large conference rooms, a training room, lounge, reception room, administration office and storage space. Trainees are housed in the hotel proper, and for relaxation during off-duty hours, have access to a roof garden and swimming pool. Cali, a growing city, also provides theatres, tennis courts and golf courses.

A permanent staff, consisting of L. W. Lerda as manager, an administrative assistant and two secretaries, operates the Center. There is no staff of instructors attached to the Center. Instead they are provided for the course by participating affiliates, and all are specialists in their fields. With this system, the common needs can be taken care of from within the Jersey organization without the necessity of building a large instructing group.

Some of the activities undertaken or planned by the center include a training supervisors' workshop, methods analysis workshop, measuring and sampling institute, courses in costs and operations, industrial sales, marketing accounting, petroleum marketing and sales management.

Supplemented Services

The Center has also set up a program of supplemental services, such as specialized courses in Spanish, development of training programs and materials for use of each affiliate, translation and adaptation of training programs used in other affiliates, and maintenance of a lending library of training films and other materials.

As a tool of management the new Esso Training Center of Latin America helps achieve the immediate aim of capitalizing on affiliates' greatest competitive resource, the know-how of their employees. Beyond this, however, the Center helps prepare for and shape the changes of tomorrow which are inevitable and essential to the progress of any industry.

Island Pole Vault Record Broken At High School Meet

The island pole vault record was broken by two Lago High School athletes April 11 at the annual track and field meet of the Seroe Colorado school Fletcher Dunbar, son of Fletcher Dunbar of Receiving and Shipping, and Kyle Spitzer, son of W. G. Spitzer, Lago police chief, cleared the bar at the new height of 10 feet 9 inches, seven inches higher than the old record set at a past Queen's Olympiad at the Lago Sport Park. The pair of record jumps highlighted the 10th annual running of this meet at Lone Palm Stadium.

As is the custom, an award is made to the athlete amassing the largest number of points. The point winner for this meet was Kyle Spitzer. He totalled 19 points with first in the 100- and 220-yard dashes, the high jump and the pole vault.

Many of the high school athletes use this annual meet as a warm-up for the forthcoming Queen's Birthday Olympiad. It is expected that a contingent of Seroe Colorado youths will enter the April 29 competition at the Sport Park particularly in the field events: high jump, discus, pole vault, javelin and running broad jump. In addition it is also anticipated that some will enter the dash events, although past records indicate that the Lago High School entrants fare better in the field rather than the track events, in the annual Olympiad.

THE PROGRAM opened with the marching of the athletes and officials, led by flag-carrying cheerleaders. John Keller of Light Oils, right, presents broad jump awards to Monroe, Massey and Keller.

Elephants Help Rajah Celebrate

Let's go to an exciting birthday party — that of the rajah of Udaipur (Oo-die-poor). It's in the state of Rajputana, north of Bombay, India, on an island-dotted lake.

A trumpet blows. The waiting populace is in gay holiday attire. The trumpet is the signal that the ruler is leaving his pink and white marble castle high on the hill, riding his favorite elephant. The band plays, the rajah's subjects throw flowers in his pathway, salute and cheer him.

He sits majestically on his throne-like seat on this huge elephant, wearing a turban and costume of bright-colored silks and velvets encrusted with thousands of precious jewels.

The elephant wears a red velvet drape, trimmed with gold, and around its ankles are tiny dangling bells.

Now they have arrived at the center of town, where the exciting event of the day takes place — the duel of the elephants and the distribution of the birthday money.

One each side of a stone wall, about as high as an elephant's thigh, stand the combatants. Each animal has one front and one hind foot chained to a support, so they will not get out of hand and kill each other.

With angry trumpeting, these duel-ers attack each other with their sharp tusks and strong trunks. The crowds cheer and bet on their favorites.

The struggle continues until one elephant is too weak and finally gives up. A medal is hung about the neck of the victor and he enjoys an extra bale of hay.

The people then turn their attention to the pavilion, where the rajah sits under his silken canopy. He is the main actor in the next scene, the distribution of the birthday money.

This ruler, who is quite heavy, sits in one side of a huge gold scale, while gold and silver are piled in the other side until the scale balances. The band plays, the people shout, and the rajah throws this money to his admiring subjects.

The rajah then rides on the lake in his beautiful barge, powered by 20 oarsmen. The people dance in the streets and have gay parties.

In the evening, the rajah has a party in his castle, where all enjoy delicacies and dancing. And the rajah has had another happy birthday.

Magic Process Creates Pictures

Did you know that you can transfer pictures from magazines very easily, almost by magic?

Here's how to do it:

Get a sheet of smooth, white paper. Rub one side of it with a wax candle or some of the white paraffin your mother uses to seal jars of jam.
Be sure to cover all the paper.

Now place the sheet of paper, wax side down, over the picture you have selected. Rub some smooth, hard object over the back of the paper. The side of a pencil will do perfectly for this.

When you lift up the paper, if you have waxed and rubbed thoroughly, you should have a good copy of the original picture.

Eight Commissary Men To Take Special Training

Eight commissary supervisors from the General Services Department are slated to take special observational training programs in United States supermarkets over the next few months. Two of the men, H. L. Dammers and D. G. Richards have already left for their assignments.

The first two men will spend a week at H. C. Bohack Co., Inc., in New York; Food Fair Stores in Linden, New Jersey, and the Penn Fruit Company, in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania.

Scheduled for scrutiny by the Lago commissary men are such things as general operations, office procedures, store layouts and other aspects of selling mass quantities of food-stuffs to large groups of people.

All commissary supervisors will take part in the training program. The New York office is currently arranging visits to other units for the remaining six supervisors.

In addition to Messrs. Dammers and Richards, the other supervisors are F. C. Ciccarelli, J. M. La Cruz, M. Pope, J. Sherman, J. L. S. Thyzen and R. H. Vint.

Williams is Key to Red Sox

TED WILLIAMS, last year's American League batting champion, the last man to hit .400, and the hope of the Boston Red Sox.

TED WILLIAMS, e campeon di bateo den Liga Americana anja pasá, e ultimo homber pa bati .400, y e speranza di Boston Red Sox.

If Ted Williams, the Grand Old Man of Fenway Park, can have even nearly as good a year as he did in 1957, the Boston Red Sox can present a strong challenge to the New York Yankees. Labeled as the most improved team in the league, the Red Sox can also count on Don Buddin, bonus shortstop just out of the Army, to give them added strength up the middle. Manager Mike Higgins is nicely set for the outfield, reading from left to right, Williams, Piersall and Jensen; he is solid with two top catchers, Sam White and Pete Daley, and in Willard Nixon, Tom Brewer and Frank Baumann, Higgins has three notable front-line pitchers. Behind those three there is satisfying depth. But Williams is the key to the pennant hopes, as he always has been. Maybe this year it will be different.

Williams ta Yabi di Red Sox

Si Ted Williams, e Grand Old Man di Fenway Park, por goza di un anja casi mes bon cu esun cu el tabatin na 1957, Boston Red Sox por presenta un desafio fuerte pa New York Yankees. Jersey Expands Top Committee

Leo D. Welch, a director of Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) since 1953 was named to the parent company's Executive Committee when its membership was increased from five to six.

The Committee meets daily, and acts for the Jersey Board when the latter is not in session, and is also available to the chief executive officer to assist in the discharge of executive duties.

In a simultaneous move, four members of the committee were designated executive vice presidents by the Jersey Board. The four include Mr. Welch, H. H. Baker, L. W. Elliott and E. F. Soubry. Eugene B. Holman, chairman of the board, and M. J. Rathbone, president, are the other members of the Jersey Executive Committee.

CYI Forms Available

The Coin Your Ideas people won't promise that the use of the standard CYI form will automatically bring an award, but they do say that it will make processing easier and quicker.

The forms are Storehouse stock, and an ordinary request is enough to bring a supply to an office or unit.

Ideas, no matter how they are submitted, are still welcome.

"Stanvac Meridian," publication of Standard-Vacuum Oil Company, ta publica retrato y storia di partinan exotic di mundo: India, Australia, Lejano Oriente. Cu distaneianan grandi di oceano entre su operaciones, Stanvac ta depende ariba navegacion di lamar, y bapornan cu ta nava den e awanan aki hopi vez ta presenta cu bon storia.

Por exemplo, e edicion coriente ta contiene un storia di un disgracia na lamar y trabao liher entre bapor, White Plains y London.

E bapor "Stanvac Bangkok," a per- de su propeller den Estrecho di Torres entre Australia y New Guinea. Stanvac Meridian ta duna e relato asina:

"Un bapor sin chapaleta ta manera un canoa sin rema, pero afortunadamente lamar tabata calmo y e bapor por a haxera den un posicion relativamente salvo.

"Marine Department na White Plains (N. Y.) en conjuncione cu Standard - Vacuum Transportation Company na London, mes ora a arega pa dos otro tanquero di Stanvac pa asisti "Bangkok." "Stanvac Palimbang," cual tres dia antes a tra- sa e punto di desgracia en ruta pa Golfo di Persia en balaste, a hala atras. El a touw e tanquero mologrado biba Singapore unda un propeller nobo tabata warden.

E 16,000 ton di carga di gasoline y diesel fuel a wordre transferi promer na lamar pa "Sonja," loke a minima retrazo y facilita e carga pa destinatarionan na New Zealand, y a haci e trabao di tonwmento mas licher."

corners of the world. He started out with the British Mexican Petroleum Company, and in 1929 joined Esso Transportation Company as master of several seagoing vessels. He came ashore at Lago in April, 1947 as chief dispatcher in the Marine Department. He was made shift supervisor-Harbor operations in May, 1951. In this role, he was described by Marine Manager F. Clark Donovan as "the backbone of the Marine organization." R. N. Wilkie of the Marine Department also spoke, remembering that he and Captain Stuart had sailed together, and that Captain Stuart always had a large collection exotic pets: a parrot, and a monkey, among other things.
